

THE WAY TO SALVATION IN THE LIGHT OF SURAH AL-ASR

ڈاکٹر اسرار احمد

THE WAY TO SALVATION

In the light of

Surah AL-‘Asr

Original in Urdu

راہ نجات: سورۃ العصر کی روشنی میں

By

Dr. Israr Ahmad

Translated by

Dr. Absar Ahmad

Maktaba Khuddam-ul-Qur’an Lahore

Title in Urdu: راہ نجات: سورۃ العصر کی روشنی میں

Title in English: The Way to Salvation

In the Light of Surah Al-'Asr

1st Edition: July 1980 Copies: 2000

2nd Print: July 1982 Copies: 2200

3rd Print: Mar. 1989 Copies: 2200

4th Print: June 1993 Copies: 2200

5th Print: Jan. 1995 Copies: 2200

6th Print: Apr. 2001 Copies: 1100

7th Print: Aug. 2004 Copies: 2200

8th Print: May 2013 Copies: 1100

2nd Edition (Revised)

1st Print: July 2026 Copies:1100

Published by:

Markazi Anjuman Khuddam-ul-Quran, Lahore

36-K Model Town, Lahore-54700

Phone: (042)35869501-3, Online Store: 0301-1115348

Email: publications@tanzeem.org

Webpage: www.tanzeem.org

Printed at: Maktaba Jadeed Press, Lahore

© Markazi Anjuman Khuddam-ul-Qur'an Lahore & Deen-e-Haq Trust

We welcome any person or publisher to seek our written permission to reproduce and print the scholarly work of Dr. Israr Ahmad (m). The interested parties are required to follow certain conditions and restrictions before publishing to ascertain the quality of the book(s) and sanctity of the relevant material. It would be appreciated if a few copies of the reproduced material are provided to us for record. We, however do reserve the right to take legal action for any unauthorized publication, malicious or otherwise alterations, misquotes, out of context quotes and references and misuse deemed damaging to his and our reputation.

Price: Rs.200

بِسۡمِ اللّٰہِ الرَّحۡمٰنِ الرَّحِیۡمِ

وَ الۡعَصۡرِ ۙ﴿۱﴾

اِنَّ الۡاِنۡسَانَ لَفِیۡ خُسۡرٍ ۙ﴿۲﴾

اِلَّا الَّذِیۡنَ اٰمَنُوۡا وَ عَمِلُوا الصّٰلِحٰتِ وَ تَوَاصَوۡا بِالۡحَقِّ ۬ۙ وَ تَوَاصَوۡا بِالصَّبۡرِ ٪﴿۳﴾

In the name of Allah,

The Entirely Merciful,

The Especially Merciful.

1. By time,

2. Indeed, mankind is in loss,

3. Except for those who have believed, And done righteous deeds,And advised each other to truth,And advised each other to patience.

CONTENTS

Foreword

5

The Way to Salvation:

In the light of Surah Al-‘Asr

7

Commentary on Surah Al-‘Asr

34

(A Speech delivered at Aitchison College, Lahore)

Four Fundamental Points Regarding Surah Al-‘Asr 34

The Two Levels of Understanding Quran 35

The English Translation of Surah Al-‘Asr 36

Analysis of the Translation 36

The Criterion of Success and Failure 37

The Minimum Conditions and Essential Prerequisites

of Salvation 39

All the Four Conditions are Indispensable 40

Eloquence with Categorical Emphasis 42

The Real Meaning of “Wal-‘Asr” 43

The Vast Meaning of “Khusran” or Loss 43

The Inter-relation of the First Two Verses 46

The Real Meaning of “Iman” or Faith 47

The Real Meaning of Righteous Deeds 53

The Meaning of Mutual Exhortation 55

The Meaning of "Haqq" or Truth 55

The Meaning of Patience 56

Exhortation to Truth and Exhortation to Patience are co-essential 57

The Inter-relation of Faith, Righteous Deeds and

Mutual Exhortation 58

It's Relation to the Surahs before and after 62

FOREWORD

This booklet includes two papers on the same topic. The first one was published in the monthly MEESAQ Lahore in November 1966. The second is a speech which was delivered before a gathering of the staff and senior students of Aitchison College, Lahore (Pakistan). The audio of speech was recorded by the Principal, and transcribed later. It appeared in the monthly MEESAQ of June, 1973. The Principal of Aitchison College also published it and distributed it as complimentary. I pray that these sincere efforts of the former principal of Aitchison College may be accepted by Allahسبحانہ وتعالٰی, and may Heسبحانہ وتعالٰی shower His blessings on him in this world and in the Hereafter. Both the articles are now being published together by Markazi Anjuman Khuddamul Qur'an, Lahore.

As the topic of both the articles is same, there might be some repetition. It might be asked what the necessity of publishing both of them was. In this connection, it may be pointed out that the style and standard of both differ in many respects. The first one is a written document in which, leaving aside the mental horizon of readers, the thoughts have been expressed smoothly and fluently in a particular narrative and in a special linguistic tone.

The second article is basically a speech and its style portrays the sense of the spoken discourse and the language used is comparatively simpler. In this way the combination of these two articles, it is hoped, has enhanced its utility and efficacy.

Secondly, when studied deeply, it would become clear that wherever something has been repeated, it has also brought out a new point and there are many important items, which are either in the first one and absent in the other and vice versa. Both these articles are based on the sole aim, that is: to explain to Muslims the correct doctrine of eternal salvation and deliverance, and the practical demands of the Islamic faith. For this objective, I have compiled a selected course of the study of the Holy Qur'an, the starting point of which is Surah Al-'Asr. If Allah سبحانہ وتعالیٰ so wishes and gives us the means, we intend to bring out the entire course in the form of such booklets for our readers.

09 September, 1973 Dr. Israr Ahmad

Founder President,

Markazi Anjuman Khuddamul Qur'an,

Lahore.

THE WAY TO SALVATION

IN THE LIGHT OF

SURAH AL-'ASR

SURAH AL-'ASR, a very early Makkan Surah is one of the shortest surahs of the Qur'an. The words used in this surah are also commonly used in Urdu and are familiar to those who have a fair knowledge of this language. This is why a sketchy meaning of the Surah is grasped without much difficulty by every Urdu-knowing individual. But studied and pondered over at a deeper level, this Surah opens up a treasure house of knowledge and wisdom.

As a matter of fact, there is a striking analogy between this Surah and Surah Al-Ikhlas. Surah Al-'Asr sums up in a few concise words the way and practical guidance that leads to eternal success and salvation just as Surah Al-Ikhlas delineates in a few words the nature and unity of Godhood in Islam. Though very short and compact, both of these Surahs are extremely rich in meaning relating to their respective themes. On this ground, Maulana Hameed-ud-Deen Farahim has categorized Surah Al-'Asr as an aphorism of great wisdom, whereas Imam Al-Sha'feiim maintained that a deep and thoughtful study of this Surah alone provides adequate guidance for attaining one's salvation.

7

This Surah is composed of three verses. The second verse is of central importance in meaning and significance. This verse expresses the painful and tragic state of man generally, a state of loss and deprivation. The evidence for this is presented in the first verse, in the form of an oath or adjuration. The third verse of the surah carves out an exception from the general condition of man laid down in the second verse.

In this way, this surah is clearly divided into two parts. Its first part: "By fleeting time, verily man is doomed (or destined) to loss and ruin" consists of a statement and its proof and as such is of immense philosophical significance, whereas the second part of the Surah: "Save those who believe, and do righteous deeds, and unite for the sake of truth and steadfastness" is of utmost practical importance, giving the essential requirements and conditions of a successful life; a precise but nevertheless complete and comprehensive elucidation of the "right path".

BIG IMPACT

It is not my aim to write down, in the following pages, an exegetical explanation of this Surah, firstly because this venture calls for greater scholarship and deeper insight than I can claim and, secondly because in my opinion Maulana Hameed-ud-Deen Farahim had already done full justice to the elucidation and exposition of the profound meaning of this surah. In the following discussion, an attempt has been made merely at explaining some general principles of the surah and, in particular, some crucial points of its second part so that a detailed and synoptic view of the obligations and duties that Islam enjoins upon us is put in bold relief.

8

If we look at this surah as a whole, we realize that the note of warning and admonition is much more pronounced than the conditions for hope given at the end. Firstly, it's very opening statement produces a big impact on the reader. The words "By (the token of) time, verily man is in a state of loss" even if considered only in their vocal effect, are capable of giving a big jolt and arousing the listener from his slumber. A full realization of its meaning must produce a still more potent effect.

Secondly; the statement, “Verily man is doomed to failure”, has been laid down as an all-compassing and categorical assertion. On the other hand, the verse starting with the words, “except those who have faith. . .” grants an exception to the general statement. This is tantamount to saying that whereas the loss or doom of man is almost a universal truth, salvation is an exception to be achieved by only a few.

A statement very similar to this has been made in Surah At-Teen. The verse of this surah, “Then we returned him to the lowest of the low” (95:5) describes the depraved condition of mankind as a whole, while the next part of this verse, “Except those who believe and do righteous deeds” (95:6) marks out the persons saved from the state of depravity.

But in Surah At-Teen two optimistic points have been made to lighten the note of warning. One, prior to, “Then we returned him to the lowest of the low” a re-assurance of the primordial goodness of man has been given in these words, immediately after the words: “Except for those who believe and do righteous deeds” a heart-warming promise of eternal salvation has been made in the same verse, “they will have a reward uninterrupted.” In Surah Al-‘Asr, on the contrary, not only there is no reassurance of man’s creation “in the best of moulds”. It ends with a mere statement of the possibility of deliverance from loss and ruin. Further, in Surah At-Teen only two conditions have been laid that exempt one from falling into a depraved state i.e. belief and good deeds. Surah Al-‘Asr demands for the exemption from universal ruin, in addition to faith and good deeds, two stringent requirements of faith: exhorting one another to truth and exhorting one another to endurance.

A statement of Prophet Jesusd is very helpful in understanding a subtle difference in the subject matter of Surah At-Teen and Surah Al-‘Asr. In the famous Sermon of the Mount he said:

“Go in through the narrow gate; because broad and spacious is the road leading off into destruction, and many are the ones who go in through it; whereas narrow is the gate and cramped the road leading to life, and few are the ones who find it.”

Surah At-Teen and Surah Al-‘Asr both contain a reference to the two paths alluded to by Jesusd. The main emphasis of Surah Al-‘Asr is on that broad path which the large majority of humanity is treading in its blind worship of carnal desires, gratification of sex and hunger, belief in “wishful thinking” and polluted traditions and unauthentic existence, coming nearer every moment to a dreadful end of an eternal doom. On the contrary, the light of Surah At-Teen is converging on the other type of path, which, though narrow and followed by a handful of men, ultimately leads to “openness” and eternal success and well-being.

When a thoughtful and sensitive person would think in the light of Surah Al-‘Asr about the wretched plight of so many and visualize the doom they shall meet, he may well be overwhelmed by a deep sense of dejection and hopelessness. It is just possible that he might lose faith in the natural and primordial goodness of man. In the darkness of this stark pessimism, Surah At-Teen appears as a shining ray of hope and confidence. In its light we have a glimpse of some pious and saintly persons following the right path, and also the evidence of man’s natural and original goodness and his potential for the pinnacle of excellence. And this quells the darkness of pessimism, giving a man self-confidence and hope about his future.

The universal truth, “Verily man is doomed” has been supported by the equally comprehensive evidence, “By (the token of) time”. This is so because the substantive proposition and its evidence are both almost universal and open to common observation. On the other hand, the rather little known truth expressed in the verse, “We have certainly created man in the best of stature” has been instantiated by a few holy persons who walked under the “fig and olive trees”, or conversed with the Lord on the Mount of Sinai, or were witness to the spiritual greatness of man in the City of Security.

The thundering call of “By (the token of) time” jolts the mind of a sensitive and thoughtful person out of absorption in his petty personal involvements, and presents to him the vast panorama of world history as unfolded in time.

The primary purpose of this adjuration, therefore, is to make the reader ponder over the deeper meaning and value of the vicissitudes of world history.

The truth of the matter is that complete preoccupation with the demands of his immediate environments and personal problems is a manifestation of man’s intellectual bankruptcy. In this way, the entire expanse of his conscious being is often confined to these demands, and he is rendered incapable of any intuitive illumination emanating from his inner-most self or comprehension of the astounding signs (ayat in Qur’anic terminology) present throughout the universe. Very insignificant and minor issues of daily life are blown quite out of proportion, and he exhausts all his time and energy in struggling for trifles and petty desires. The Holy Qur’an has delineated two ways that help a person in coming out of this mental and psychological confinement. First, the way of attaining the ultimate truth through a deep soul-searching, a listening to the affirmations of one’s inner self. Second, the way of reflecting and meditating on the signs found in the cosmos and the clear testimonies provided by history. The contents of Surah Al-‘Asr guide us to this latter way.

It is only due to sheer negligence or insensitivity that we take time to be as something static. On the contrary, everything which exists today in the world will perish before long. Similarly, human beings who are busy now in managing the manifold activities of a full life, will in a matter of few years yield place to other generations. The fleeting passage of time is itself a warning to unmindful persons and should be sufficient to bring home to them that they and all their worldly pursuits will shortly come to an end. Our short lease of life is expiring rapidly, and after a little while we will disappear in the mist of the past.

12

CHANGES

Time is the greatest teacher and mentor of man. It is labeled in oriental lore as Falak-i-Peer (the old heaven). In the bosom of time are contained tremendous accounts of nations' rise and fall which can be of great significance and value for people living now on earth. This planet has seen hundreds of nations in the past, rising slowly towards eminence, consolidating their power for something and then degenerating and falling into oblivion. How many nations took shape, reached their climax and then vanished without a trace! Dozens of civilizations saw the light of day and, after touching the summit of success and fame, decayed and were annihilated. Billions and billions of human beings were born into this world and after having passed through the stages of adolescence, youth, and old age, returned to dust.

Thousands built big empires by means of massive military campaigns and conquests, some even went to the extent of claiming divine and god-like status for themselves, and ordered their subordinates to worship them. But, at last, they were all drowned in the ocean of time.

The great historical episodes alluded to by the Qur'an in the brief "By (the token of) time" were studied and expounded in great depth and detail by scholars and commentators of the Holy Book. This particular attempt towards understanding the meaning of the Qur'an assumed the status of a separate branch of Qur'anic studies and was termed by Shah Waliullahm of Delhi as Tazkeer bi Ayyamillah which means reminding or instructing the reader of the Book by means of recounting the moral lessons inherent in the events of the past history.

13

The Qur'anic verse, "Verily men are in a state of loss", epitomizes the undeniable tragedy to which relics of history spread all around the world bear witness. The real bitterness of this tragic fact will however be experienced only in the life Hereafter. It is something to be commended that very few persons have been gifted with a really keen and sensitive heart, otherwise thousands of men like Buddha, at the sight of mankind's misery and exceedingly unhappy plight, might have turned their back on worldly pleasures and gone into ascetic hide-outs. On examining rather critically and attentively the human condition, one will come to realize that in spite of hard labour all day long, millions of the unprivileged classes do not even get an adequate meal. There are tens of thousands of people who see their relatives and dear ones dying before their eyes but cannot afford a spoonful of medicine that might help in curing the disease. An unaccountable number of human beings do not possess even the bare minimum of clothing and shelter. Terrible and heart-rending afflictions are suffered by many.

Even the bright exterior of the life of men of privilege and wealth only covers up their own tales of woe. Often the travail and suffering of these men is more dreadful than that of the common run of people. In spite of having all conceivable luxuries of life, they crave for an anxiety-free moment during the day and for peaceful sleep at night.

14

In this stage of terrestrial existence the condition of most men is as pitiable as that of those animals which are mercilessly forced to carry back-breaking burdens throughout their life. Taking a more judicious view of things, one can say that pangs of psychic anxiety and bouts of spiritual agony suffered by human beings are much greater in intensity than the purely bodily pains which animals suffer.

But, still worse, man will see the climax of his tragedy when, having experienced all these worldly hardships, griefs and afflictions, he will at last be brought before Almighty Allah سبحانہ وتعالٰی for the last reckoning of his deeds. The Qur'an describes this in these words:

يٰٓاَيُّهَا الْاِنْسَانُ اِنَّکَ كَادِحٌ اِلٰى رَبِّکَ كَدْحًا فَمُلٰقِيْهِ ۚ﴿۶﴾ (الانشقاق، ۸۴:۶)

"O mankind! Indeed you are laboring toward your Lord with [great] exertion and will meet it." (Al-Inshiqaq, 84:6)

At that crucial moment of great trial man will cry out: "Would that I was dust"! The noblest souls of all humanity tremble and quiver at the very thought of that final trial and some men even wish they were a sparrow chirping on a tree or were a straw of grass (so they might not be called to account for on the day of judgment).

At that critical moment the reality of the verse "Verily, man is in a state of loss" will become manifest in the highest degree, and the large majority of human being will say in utter despair: "If only my mother had not given birth to me." As the Qur'anic verse tells us the most real and obvious loss is the loss met on that Day in the life hereafter.

15

The last verse of Surah Al-'Asr "Save those who believe, do good deeds and exhort one another to uphold the truth and exhort one another to constancy", delineates the sole means of deliverance from eternal hell-fire. It is, therefore, imperative that we should exercise utmost diligence in understanding the full meaning of this verse.

Since this verse is inseparably linked with the preceding one “Verily man is in a state of loss”, it must be studied principally in this context. Both these verses describe most clearly and distinctly the all-important truth that the success of human life depends upon the following:

1. Iman or belief (in the metaphysical tenets of Islam)
2. Amal-i-Saleh or good deeds
3. Tawasi bil-Haqq or mutual exhortation to truth
4. Tawasi bis-Sabr or mutual exhortation to constancy and steadfastness

DESTRUCTION

Life without fulfilling these four inevitable conditions leads to eternal destruction. However bright or glittering a man’s worldly success might be, it is no success if he lacks the above four conditions. These verses present a criterion of man’s ultimate triumph and failure which is diametrically opposed to the one prevalent in present day materialistic society. A thorough grasp of the meaning of these verses and a deep conviction of their veracity must necessarily result in a total trans valuation of values regarding life’s aims and achievements.

If all that man cherishes most --- political power, social status, affluence, availability of resources, high-ranking posts, well-established business, shining limousines, and big palatial buildings --- are unaccompanied by the above-mentioned four conditions, then they must be a preamble to external torment.

The only thing that can possibly save a man from everlasting doom is a real transformation of his nature, one which reforms his mind and heart and radically changes his perspective to conform to these four items, which collectively constitute the indispensable minimum requirements of human salvation. And this is only sufficient for the deliverance from destruction and not necessarily enough for the attainment of lofty stations in paradise. The Qur’an is not the work of a poet who says many things simply for the sake of adding elegance to the composition or under the necessity of rhythm and rhyme, but the word of God Almighty, and each word is precise and full of true wisdom. It contains nothing else but Haqq or the truth, not allowing any addition or diminution whatsoever. If we eliminate even a single of the above mentioned stipulations, the responsibility of the Qur'an in respect of our salvation stands null and void and it will be sheer self-deception if we consider ourselves as the rightful recipients of the Qur'anic promise.

IGNORANCE

It is most unfortunate that, in the present age of religious degeneration and decline, we have become completely ignorant of this truth. A large majority of Muslims today assumes that belief (Iman) is the sole condition of a man's success on the Day of Judgment, and hence takes belief in a strictly legal sense. Those who are a little more sensible and knowledgeable also take good deeds as an essential requirement in addition. But even a good number of learned religious persons nowadays consider "mutual exhortation to truth" and "mutual exhortation to constancy and steadfastness" as secondary or supererogatory conditions to be fulfilled only by those desirous of exceptionally higher positions in the Hereafter. May people study and ponder over Surah Al-'Asr afresh and get to know with full conviction that the Qur'an has very clearly and unambiguously made human salvation to depend upon four condition:

- Belief
- Good deeds
- Mutual exhortation to uphold the truth
- Mutual exhortation to constancy

Let us take another step and concentrate our attention on these four points separately so as to get a better comprehension of their profound meaning. The first most important point that comes out on a closer study is that these four things are not to be compared with the four independent items, for example, a medical compound but rather these are four stages on the road that leads to salvation, four milestones on one single path of truth. These have within themselves an organic unity, and logically imply each other. True belief (Iman) is a prelude to righteous action which itself is a preliminary to mutual teaching of truth (Tawasi bil-haqq). And this in turn is a forerunner of mutual teaching of steadfastness (Tawasi bil-Sabr).

18

Deeply entrenched and rightly nurtured belief and faith must necessarily blossom into righteous life and conduct. Further, if a true believer lived only for himself, he would not have fulfilled his whole duty. Whatever good he possesses, especially moral and spiritual truth, he must disseminate among his brethren, so that they may also see the truth and stand by it in patient hope and unshaken constancy amidst all the storm and stress of worldly life. An essential consequence of righteous life is the teaching of truth to others and this necessitates uniting together and exhorting one another to patience and endurance in facing the forces of evil.

Reflecting on the reality and pristine nature of faith and belief i.e., Iman, leaving aside its politico-social aspects and legal or theological controversies, we come to know that faith connotes a particular mode of one's mind or psyche (nafs or qalb) which is governed by a recognition of the oneness and unity of God, the reality of prophethood and the life Hereafter. This state of mind reigns over one's entire being, one's faculties of head and heart, so that his desires, emotions and actions all harmonize with this knowledge.

In a word, it does away with disunion and duplicity in cognition and volition, and produces concordance between them. The essence of genuine belief, therefore, lies in a complete co-ordination of a man's knowledge of ultimate truths and his will and actions. The real fruit of Iman is the tranquility of mind that a believer experiences as a consequence of this harmony. As long as a man's religious belief remains merely an idea untranslated into action, he will not be able to attain true belief or Iman.

19

Summing up his excellent discussion of belief, Maulana Hameed-ud-Deen Farahim writes:

"Belief or Iman refers to a particular mental and spiritual state which rules over a man's total creed and actions … it has two pillars: knowledge and action. If we pull down either one of the two, the entire edifice will collapse. A man who is well-versed in theological doctrines such as God's Providence, and in all the principles and details of Islamic faith, but continues to indulge in sinful and forbidden (haram) activities, he does not have an iota of that belief or Iman which alone is creditable in the sight of Allahسبحانہ وتعالٰی."[Majmooa-e-Tafaseer-e-Farahi, p.350]

If this is the nature of faith, then righteous action is a corollary, or, if you prefer, an essential consequence of faith and from the absence of righteous deeds and the actual manifestations of belief, one can rightly infer the lack of faith. A Qur'anic verse describes this situation thus:

قَالَتِ الۡاَعۡرَابُ اٰمَنَّا ؕ قُلۡ لَّمۡ تُؤۡمِنُوۡا وَ لٰكِنۡ قُوۡلُوۡۤا اَسۡلَمۡنَا وَ لَمَّا يَدۡخُلِ الۡاِيۡمَانُ فِىۡ قُلُوۡبِكُمۡ ؕ وَ اِنۡ تُطِيۡعُوا اللّٰهَ وَ رَسُوۡلَهٗ لَا يَلِتۡكُمۡ مِّنۡ اَعۡمَالِكُمۡ شَيۡـًٔا ؕ اِنَّ اللّٰهَ غَفُوۡرٌ رَّحِيۡمٌ ﴿۱۴﴾۔ (الحجرات، ۴۹:۱۴)

“The Bedouins say, "We have believed." Say, "You have not [yet] believed; but say [instead], “We have submitted,” for faith has not yet entered your hearts. And if you obey Allah and His Messenger, He will not deprive you from your deeds of anything. Indeed, Allah is Forgiving and Merciful." (Al-Hujurat, 49:14)

20

Belief (Iman) and righteous deeds are so closely united and inter-twined that the latter can be treated as a sine qua non of the former. Indeed to consider the two as one and the same thing is not wholly unjustified.

Understanding the Qur’anic term Amal-i-Saleh (righteous or good deeds) requires deep thought and reflection. The Qur’an includes under this blanket term all its moral and legal teachings, including the laws of individuals and social conduct. It also makes an allusion to the fact that the secret of man’s real development and progress lies in performing these very acts. Righteous deeds alone can guarantee the growth of man’s natural capacities and potentialities on the right lines. To quote Maulana Farahim again:

“Almighty Allahسبحانہ وتعالٰی has designated good and righteous deeds with the word Salehat. This term itself guides us to the great truth that the whole of man’s development and rectitude – be it outward or inner, worldly or spiritual, personal or collective, bodily or intellectual – depends upon good and righteous deeds. Righteous action is life giving and a source of maturity and enhancement. By means of good deeds alone man can attain those highest stages of development to which he aspires by nature . . . . . This point can be put in alternative words thus: Since man is an integral part of the total scheme of universe, only those of his deeds will be righteous which accord with the grand design on which the universe has been fashioned by its Creator.”

21

TWO SIDES

And so, belief and faith is simply a complete consonance between a man’s true knowledge of the Absolute and his thoughts, ideas, emotions and passions. And righteousness of action is the co-ordination which human actions should have with the Divine will, the will that animates and sustains the cosmos. Belief and righteous deeds are two aspects or facets of one and the same reality, two sides of a single picture. This is the reason why the Qur’an usually mentions these two together. There are very few cases in the Qur’an where belief alone has been mentioned, and even in these cases we can most often, on deeper reflection, discover an implicit reference to the moral and practical obligations that genuine faith must entail.

Let us press our inquiry a step further. It is almost a truism that man is a social animal. There is always an interaction between him and the surrounding social reality. He influences his environment and receives its influence. This can be illustrated by considering an example. Just as fire warms the objects around it while ice freezes what surrounds it, a man's righteous deeds have a wholesome and ennobling influence upon others. Similarly, immoral actions tend to degrade and disintegrate the world. If evil is rampant in a society, a righteous person must struggle hard to ward off its influence. So mutual exhortation to truth (tawasi-bil-haqq) and mutual exhortation to steadfastness (tawasi-bis-sabr) must necessarily ensue from true belief (Iman) and righteous deeds. Just as true belief and righteous actions go together, so uniting in truth and in constancy to it are inseparable.

Maulana Farahi elaborates the relation between righteous conduct and mutual exhortation (tawasi) in these words:

"Just as Iman gives rise to righteous deeds, so righteous deeds necessarily give rise to mutual encouragement to truth. This is so quite understandably because a person, whose adherence to the truth can make him endure the worst possible trial and affliction, must consider his knowledge of the truth and fidelity to it as superior to everything else."

TRUTH

He will not rest content merely with his own love of the truth but rather will also wish to see the whole world adhering to it. Wherever he sees the truth trampled upon and falsehood triumphant, he will be moved tremendously, and try to persuade his fellows to support the truth. This defence of his convictions is a natural and essential consequence of his own sentiment. Therefore, Allahسبحانہ وتعالیٰ has mentioned tawasi (righteous exhortation) here as an implication of amal-i-saleh (righteous deed). Maulana Farahim has thus explained the literal meaning of the word "Truth" or Haqq: Truth, though originally it signified anything existent, stable, and fixed, in actual usage has acquired a variety of meanings. It is generally used to mean the following three:

- Anything the existence or occurrence of which is absolutely sure
- Anything rationally proved and accepted
- Any moral obligation

This amply shows that the expression tawasi bil-haqq (mutual exhortation to truth) covers a wide range of activities starting from the teaching of minor moral duties and the self-evident principles of reason and established

facts of the universe, to the highest and most esteemed activity, the propagation and establishment of the religion of truth (Deen-al-haqq) which Allahسبحانہ وتعالیٰ revealed to the Prophet Muhammadﷺ. Maulana Farahim expressed this very explicitly in a passage:

"This brings out clearly the truth that it is incumbent on Muslims to do righteous deeds in order to fulfil their obligations (to the Almighty). This fulfillment further necessitates that they help each other in executing their religious and moral duties. Since execution of all the duties and obligations laid down by Allahسبحانہ وتعالیٰ is not possible without Khilafat (Islamic Government and justice), it is imperative that they strive to establish it."

Now only one step remains to be explored, that mutual exhortation to truth (tawasi-bil-haqq) necessarily implies mutual exhortation to constancy (tawasi bis-sabr). Self-restraint and constancy is required even in one's own firm adherence to truth simply because one must exercise self-control in the face of a great many temptations, must curb his sensual appetites, and must face scores of painful disappointments and impediments. At the stage of mutual exhortation to truth (tawasi-bil-haqq), much bigger trials of patience and resolution become inevitable. It is a matter of common observation that at times even propagating a minor truth puts a man to severe tests of endurance. Sticking to a right policy is sometimes as difficult as trial by fire.

History is replete with instances of torture and wanton injuries inflicted on champions of moral truths.

Proclamation and dissemination of the basic truth of man's life and obligation to God may well require proportionately greater ordeals and sufferings. If an attempt is made to call all people to the fulfillment of their religious obligations and the establishment of an equitable and just order, the severest opposition is sure to follow. Any one may try it for himself. He needs only start by advising people to perform ordinary and simple moral actions, and soon they will frown and become furious. Let him try to persuade somebody who has forcefully usurped the property of a poor man to give the man his due and he will see how great a resentment he must face. Let him just utter a word in support of someone oppressed, and in no time the tyrant becomes his deadly enemy. It should not take much thought to realize that demanding the fulfillment of one's total moral obligations, fighting for an entire system of social justice and equity, and calling to the whole of Deen-al-Haqq (the true religion) can never be possible without utmost hostility and opposition.

UNITY

If an exhortation is made to uphold the truth without evil forces putting obstacles in its way, if a programmatic and concerted call is issued to establish social justice but tyrants and oppressors merely keep silent, then either the advocates of Truth have some clandestine agreement with the forces of injustice, or they are working for just a part of the Truth, not the whole of it. Men thriving upon injustice may not deem it necessary to suppress a movement towards social justice if they find that that particular part of the truth is harmless to their vested interests.

25

But total commitment to truth and the struggle to establish it inevitably brings persecution and harassment. Every step on this path invites ever greater ordeal and challenges. Allama Iqbal has rendered this in a beautiful couplet:

یہ شہادت گہ الفت میں قدم رکھنا ہے

لوگ آسان سمجھتے ہیں مسلماں ہونا

“People consider being a true Muslim an easy affair. Nay! It is like stepping in the pyre of love and martyrdom.”

At this stage there is no alternative for men of faith in the true religion but to unite their aspiration and energies. Encouraging and helping each other, being firm and patient themselves and exhorting others to firmness and patience, they must form a united front, what the Qur’an calls a “solid cemented structure”. In so doing, they will make themselves an embodiment of the Qur’anic verse:

يٰٓاَيُّهَا الَّذِيْنَ اٰمَنُوا اصْبِرُوْا وَ صَابِرُوْا وَ رَابِطُوْا ۟ وَ اتَّقُوا اللّٰهَ لَعَلَّكُمْ تُفْلِحُوْنَ ﴿۲۰۰﴾ -(آل عمران، ۳: ۲۰۰)

“O you who have believed! Persevere and endure and remain stationed and fear Allah that you may be successful.” (Al-e-Imran, 3:200)

At the stage of tawasi-bil-haqq (mutual exhortation to Truth), it is perhaps impossible for Muslims in their individual capacities to stand up to the opposition mounted against them by the evil forces. It is, therefore, imperative that they unite into a well-organized group. This is the reason why the Qur’an has given the injunctions regarding Haqq and Sabr in the Arabic grammatical form of tafa’-ul.

26

That is to say, in the verse “wa tawaso bil-Haqqe wa tawaso bis-sabr” there is an implicit reference to the necessity of a united and organized group life for Muslims. These virtues we must exercise both for ourselves and in relation to others. We must set an example for others and take the excellence of others as an example for ourselves, so that we may not fall short of what is due from us. In this way we strengthen each other and bind our mutual relations closer in common service to God. In the later part of the passage quoted above from Maulana Farahi's book, he says, "… and since the establishment of Khilafat depends on obedience to an Ameer (the leader), it is essential that Muslims submit themselves to discipline. It is, therefore, clear that belief, righteous deed, mutual exhortation to truth and mutual exhortation to steadfastness are not mutually exclusive. Rather, they are bound together closely in a strictly logical sequence, four stages of a single straight path.

Faith is like a seed from which sprouts the bud of righteous conduct. The bud grows into a mature plant with leaves and flowers of mutual exhortation to truth and constancy. This also explains why the Qur'an almost always couples faith and good deeds, even when only faith is mentioned, the reader can easily understand that it covers in its connotation all of the four requirements. For instance, in the following verse:

اِنَّ الَّذِيۡنَ قَالُوۡا رَبُّنَا اللّٰهُ ثُمَّ اسۡتَقَامُوۡا. . . (حٰمٓ السجدة، ۴۱: ۳۰)

"Indeed, those who have said, "Our Lord is Allah" and then remained on a right course…" (Fussilat, 41:30)

Here only the most fundamental of Islamic beliefs, i.e., belief in the providence of Almighty Allahسبحانہ وتعالٰی, has been mentioned, though, it should be taken to include the other fundamentals, such as Hazrat Muhammad'sﷺ prophethood and the reality of life in the Hereafter. And in summa-staqamu (further stand straight and steadfast) have been summed up the remaining three conditions, viz., righteous conduct, mutual exhortation of truth and mutual exhortation to persistence in truth. At other places in the Qur'an, in addition to the primal condition of belief only mutual exhortation has been mentioned. The following verse of Surah Al-Balad is an example of this:

ثُمَّ كَانَ مِنَ الَّذِيۡنَ اٰمَنُوۡا وَ تَوَاصَوۡا بِالصَّبۡرِ وَ تَوَاصَوۡا بِالۡمَرۡحَمَةِ ﴿۱۷﴾ (البلد، ۹۰: ۱۷)

"And then being among those who believed and advised one another to patience and advised one another to compassion." (Al-Balad, 90:17)

The truth of the matter is that all these four conditions are basic to the Qur'anic way that leads to eternal bliss and salvation. Elucidation and explanation of these requirements and detailed accounts of their stages and degrees are found throughout the Holy Book.

CONDITIONS

In the preceding paragraph, mention has been made of stages and degrees pertaining to the several conditions of success and salvation. A point of crucial importance as it is, a few brief remarks about them are in order here. Each of the three articles of belief, righteous deed and mutual exhortation of truth admits of degrees and ranks.

28

Taking belief first, even the ordinary believer who accepts faith, that is who believes in the tenets of Islam and does good deeds, becomes a member of a great and beautiful spiritual fraternity – a company which lives perpetually in the sunshine of God's grace.

Within itself however Iman has a glorious hierarchy, of which two grades are specified by the Qur'an; the highest grade is that of the prophetsf, who get plenary inspiration from God and who teach mankind by example and precept. The second one is that of the Siddiqeen, the most sincere lovers of truth, who support the truth with their person, their means, their influence, and all that is theirs. This second rank was held by the closest companions of Prophet Muhammadﷺ, such as Hazrat Abu Bakr Siddiqueh.

Similarly the category of righteous deed (amal-i-saleh) applies to a wide variety of actions, beginning from the very ordinary moral acts of kindness, like removing a stone from a road on which men walk. In its higher reaches it is attributable to thorough obedience to Qur'anic injunctions covering all aspects of a Muslim's life, including even the minor details of his personal life. It means more than just conformity to an external code of law. At its highest level it permeates all actions to attain a state of moral excellence which the Qur'an calls ihsan and taqwa.

In a like manner, tawasi bil-haqq has several grades. Its lowest stage is exhorting one another, to perform acts of kindness and compassion, tawasi bil-marhama, on occasions which arise fairly commonly in everyday life.

29

A sense of kindness and compassion has been ingrained in the nature of human beings and only the most-wicked one lacks it. According to a Qur'anic verse, those who discourage or forbid others from feeding the poor have touched the nadir of moral depravity.

KINDNESS

A prophetic saying further elaborates this in these words:

((مَنْ يُحْرَمِ الرِّفْقَ يُحْرَمِ الْخَيْرَ))[صحيح مسلم: ۶۶۰۰]

“He who is devoid of kindness is devoid of all good.”

A higher stage of tawasi bil-haqq is that of calling people to Allahسبحانہ وتعالیٰ, enjoining good and forbidding evil. A true Muslim should give clothing to the ill-clad, food to the hungry and drink to the thirsty. But the greatest benefit he can render to his fellow beings is to turn them back from moral and spiritual bankruptcy and guide them to the straight path of the Qur’an and Sunnah. In one’s life journey to the ultimate goal, the duty of each Muslim is to catch hold of the hand of one who goes astray from the straight path of Islam and to guide him aright. Mutual counsel gives life to actions and foster a healthy spirit among the individuals.

At a still higher stage, tawasi bil-haqq adopts the form of testifying to the truth and veracity of Islam (Shahadat-i-haqq) exalting the truth from Allahسبحانہ وتعالیٰ over all man-made ideologies (E’lae-e-Kalimatillah), and establishing Islam both in the individual and social aspects of life (Iqamet-i-Deen).

The testimony to the truth may be by the tongue of a true preacher or the pen of a devoted scholar or by the life of a man devoted to service. The highest and most revered form of this testimony is presented by a Muslim who leaves his house and family to fight the enemy for the cause of Allahسبحانہ وتعالیٰ (Jehad-fi-Sabillilah). Endurance is the greatest solace of a true Muslim while going through all the trials on account of tawasi bil-haqq. Especially in the higher stages, mutual teaching and exhorting to constancy becomes so essential that tawasi bil-sabr has been mentioned separately to highlight the collective and cooperative character of Muslim society.

It is, no doubt, difficult for all and sundry to attain the above-mentioned highest stages of belief or Iman, righteous deed, mutual exhortation of truth and mutual exhortation of patience and endurance. But if a man’s inner personality has not been corroded by some spiritual or moral ailment, it is almost certain that a healthy and potent seed of religious belief will flourish into wholesome and balanced branches of righteous actions, exhortation to truth and constancy.

It is surely excusable if a lay Muslim, who has very little knowledge of the fundamentals of Islam and performs the well-known basic duties of Shariah (Islamic code of law), confines himself to tawasi bil-marhama i.e., doing himself acts of kindness and compassion and advising others to the same, which is just the threshold of tawasi bil-haqq. But those who embark on rigorous spiritual exercises like repeated recitation of a religious formula called Zikr to attain deeper and richer states of faith and belief, those who engage themselves in devotional prayers and mustahabbat (something additional to what is obligatory or farz) but pay little attention to the more obligatory duty of tawasi bil-haqq are seriously misguided in their attitude. Lives of these people are mostly either totally devoid of the essential religious duty of tawasi bil-haqq or they exhibit just a vestige of it in the form of occasional brief sermon or sporadic moralizing advice.

This state of affairs is certainly wrong and needs to be rectified immediately. In this connection, a story reported by Prophet Muhammadﷺ puts the urgency of this duty in very bold relief. He mentioned an extremely pious old man whom the angels testified that he never indulged in sin even for as long as the blink of an eye, but who never angered or got moved at the sight of people breaking the commands of God. Despite all his piety and life-long spiritual observances, Allahسبحانہ وتعالٰی ordered the angels to destroy him first and then the entire community.

On the other hand, it should also be clearly understood, that it is equally dangerous to aspire and struggle for the highest stages of tawasi bil-haqq through activities geared to establishing an Islamic order of society, but taking meager interest in spiritual devotions and performing only those prayers which are obligatory (farz), and attenuate faith to a mere theological belief without realizing its deeper meaning and cultivating it inwardly. All types of unbalanced attitudes and life-styles within these two extremes are misconceived and possibly dangerous.

STRUGGLE

The sole way of salvation and deliverance from eternal damnation towards which Surah Al-'Asr points is that every human being should strive and struggle within the limits of his capacity to attain the maximum degree of faith, righteous action, enjoinment of truth and of constancy. As far as the question of determining one's capacities is concerned, there is a simple and foolproof procedure for this which each may apply to himself.

Self-deceiving and self-pitying excuses of incapability may be induced by Satan (Devil), but the honest test of self-assessment is quite simply this: each Muslim should ask himself to what extent he is exerting himself in the economic struggle of life and to what degree his capacities and potentialities, mental and physical, are becoming visible in the over-all course of mundane pursuits. If a weak, frail and ungifted person who has either met complete failure or lagged far behind in the struggle of worldly existence tenders on the Day of Judgement some excuse for his shortcoming and deficiency in spiritual attainments, he is most likely to be pardoned by the Grace of Allahسبحانہ وتعالٰی. But surely those who are progressing and flourishing in worldly matters cannot legitimately make such excuses. Nor should they expect from Allahسبحانہ وتعالٰی any mercy on them. A Qur'anic verse puts this unambiguously in these words:

بَلِ الْاِنْسَانُ عَلٰی نَفْسِہٖ بَصِیْرَۃٌ ﴿۱۴﴾ وَّ لَوْ اَلْقٰی مَعَاذِیْرَہٗ ﴿۱۵﴾ (القیمۃ، ۷۵: ۱۴، ۱۵)

"Rather, man, against himself, will be a witness, Even if he presents his excuses." (Al-Qiyamah, 75:14, 15)

***

COMMENTARY ON SURAH AL-'ASR

(A Speech delivered at Aitchison College, Lahore)

Four Fundamental Points Regarding Surah Al-'Asr

3. This is one of the earliest surahs of the Glorious Qur'an to be revealed. It was revealed to Prophet Muhammadﷺ in the earliest period of his prophethood in Makkah.

4. It is one of the shortest surahs of the Glorious Qur'an as it has only three verses, the first of which is comprised of only one word Wal-Asr.

5. It is one of the most comprehensive surahs of the Glorious Qur'an. The Holy Qur'an is a book of guidance for all mankind, which has been revealed to guide the human race on the road to success and salvation. This path of salvation towards which the Holy Qur'an guides us has been described with utmost brevity and comprehensiveness in this short surah.

The whole Glorious Qur'an is like a tree, and this short surah is its seed. And as a seed contains the total potentiality of a whole tree, Surah Al-'Asr contains the essence of the Holy Qur'an.

This is why some reports of the Companions of the Holy Prophet (may Allah سبحانہ وتعالیٰ be pleased with them) indicate that whenever two of them met and sat together they never parted without reciting Surah Al-'Asr to each other.

35

And this can be the reason why Imam Al-Shaf'eiim has said about this surah that if the people were to ponder over this surah alone, it would suffice for their guidance. He has also been reported as saying that if nothing else would have been revealed in this Glorious Qur'an except this surah then this surah would have been sufficient for man's guidance.

4. The wording of this surah is very simple and easy to understand. The masterpieces of literature of every language are sublime in subject matter and meaning but so simple in style and wording that they can be understood by all. This is why such pieces of literature are easily accessible to everyone. The Glorious Qur'an is the most eminent masterpiece of Arabic literature and in its totality can be understood easily. But this short surah is the best example of the most lucid surahs of the Holy Qur'an. Though it is very complete and all-embracing, not a single high-sounding or elusive word has been used in it. Its words are familiar even to those who are only acquainted with Urdu or Persian, and do not know Arabic.

The Two Levels of Understanding Qur'an

Before describing the significance of this surah, it is important to state the fundamental principle that the Qur'an can be comprehended on many levels. The real lesson which is implicit in any surah or verse of the Holy Qur'an should be made explicit in order that the basic guidance regarding human conduct may be attained. The Glorious Qur'an calls this Tazakkur-bil-Qur'an, i.e, realizing through the Qur'an the fundamental truths implicit in human nature. From this point of view, the Glorious Qur'an is the easiest of books to understand.

36

The highest stage of contemplation of Qur'anic verses has been termed Tadabbur-i-Qur'an, which means reflecting and pondering over every word deeply, in order to deduce the philosophy and the wisdom of the Holy Book. In this sense the Holy Qur'an is the most difficult of the books as it is not easy to attain the depth of its meaning.

In this paper, I will describe clearly and in detail the basic guidance obtained through the application of Tazakkur-bil-Qur'an to surah Al-'Asr. I will also include some hints concerning Tadabbur-i-Qur'an so that those who are interested in the deeper contemplation of the Qur'an may also benefit.

The English Translation of Surah Al-'Asr

A simple translation of the surah is as follows:

1. By Time,
2. Indeed, mankind is in loss,
3. Except for those who have believed and done righteous deeds and advised each other to truth and advised each other to patience.

Analysis of the Translation

The three verses in this surah form one complete sentence. The first verse Wal-'Asr is an oath. The second verse describes a general rule. The third verse describes an exception from that general rule. Combined together, all the three verses constitute a single statement.

Please implant this simple statement firmly and clearly in your mind. And by pondering over it, you should deduce four conclusions which are the basic lessons of this surah.

The Criterion of Success and Failure

The most important truth flowing forth from this surah is Allah's سبحانہ وتعالٰی presentation of the real criterion of man's success and failure.

Every person keeps in his mind a criterion of success and failure, of gain and loss. All his endeavours and the whole struggle of his life in this world is directed according to this criterion. An intellectually mature person is rarely found who does not have an appointed goal or an ideal before him. Even children, especially the more intelligent ones, keep before them a standard of achievement. They concentrate their energies on the attainment of such goals.

If we were to look around in our society as well as to search our hearts and minds, we would find that in this age, the real criterion of success or failure is wealth and property, or status, honour, fame and ostentation, or worldly power. All but a few are running after these things. They expend their energies for these purposes. The minds of most of our students are directed towards obtaining degrees in science or technology, so that they may earn a lot of money or achieve status, position or power. The achievement of these things is their criterion of success or failure.

The paramount truth, which comes to our minds by studying Surah Al-'Asr, is very different from this.

In other words, the criterion of man's success is neither money or wealth, nor status, position, power, or ostentation. Rather its first condition is "Faith", the second is "righteous deeds", the third is "exhortation to truth", and the fourth is "exhortation to patience".

By this criterion, a person who does not possess the above four qualities is unsuccessful and will never achieve his real goal, and in the end he will be a loser, though he might be a millionaire, even a billionaire like Qarun, and might have highest status, position, and power, even kingship like Pharaoh or Herod. Conversely, anyone who has these four prerequisites is successful and triumphant, even if he has no worldly wealth or property, and may be penniless, homeless, friendless, unknown, dishonored and starving.

If you reflect deeply over it, you will find that acknowledging this truth is very easy, but its realization in your heart and soul is very difficult. We are living in a world of cause and effect, and we are bound to be influenced by its external features. When we see that comfort, prosperity, honour and reputation is due to wealth and worldly resources, we involuntarily rush to get these things, so much so that we forget to distinguish between right and wrong, legal and illegal, approved and forbidden. In other words, the reformation of our attitudes and the righteousness of our actions depend upon changing our criteria of success and failure, gain and loss. This is the real lesson of this unique surah.

With a little contemplation, it will become clear that if the simple truth stated in this great surah is engraved on our heart and penetrates our soul, it will revolutionize our point of view, change our values, and transform radically our day to day life. What was thought most important before will appear to be most trivial, and what was insignificant before will become significant.

The great transformation which was brought about in the lives of the Companions of the Holy Prophet Muhammadﷺ was the result of this deep-rooted change in their point of view. In their sight, this world and whatever is in it seemed insignificant as compared to the achievement of Allah'sسبحانہ وتعالیٰ pleasure and that of the Prophetﷺ. This is the real lesson of this magnificent surah, and everyone should keep it in mind so that it may be infused in his heart and soul.

The Minimum Conditions and Essential prerequisites of Salvation

This surah describes only the minimum conditions and the essential prerequisites for salvation, not the highest stages of achievement, nor the lofty ranks of success and accomplishment. It explains the minimum demanded of us for our salvation. Anything less would be failure. It does not mention first or second division, grades "A" or "B" of success, but only states the mere passing grade, the minimum requirement for our success.

This second conclusion has very important implication for our actions. The extreme decadence of the moral and practical life of Muslims is a result of their forgetting this injunction of the Glorious Qur'an.

The realization that this is the minimum standard of success will necessarily produce the proportionate effort, struggle, and sacrifice for achieving it. People who strive for the lofty ranks and sublime stages of religious excellence are rare. Most men only try to fulfil the minimum requirements for salvation in one way or another. This is why in this glorious surah the minimum demands of salvation have been described in simplest terms so that people may dedicate themselves to its achievement according to their capability.

All the four Conditions are indispensable

The third conclusion is a corollary of the second one. For salvation, "faith", "righteous deeds", "exhortation of truth" and "exhortation of patience" are all necessary. None of them can be dropped. These are the words of Allahسبحانہ وتعالٰی. Not a single additional word is added in it for the sake of rhyme or exaggeration. Four conditions have been stated for saving us from utter loss or failure, and certainly, all four of these are necessary. If any one of them is left out, then the guarantee of man's salvation will not rest on the Holy Qur'an. For example, if a medical expert writes four medicines in a prescription for a patient, and the patient leaves out any of them according to his own judgement, then the medical expert will not be responsible for the incomplete medication. The patient himself will be responsible for this error.

It is necessary to emphasize this fact, because a false notion has taken hold of the great majority of Muslims that salvation depends on the mere utterance of the declaration of faith, that the mere verbal confession of faith is sufficient for salvation, and any practical application of it to his life is an additional goodness which will elevate him to high stages.

41

You will find very few people who think that after professing faith actively living by its dictates is necessary for salvation. Even these few people rarely regard it as necessary for everyone to take up the task of "exhortation to truth". It is usually assumed that the propagation of the message of Islam is the task of a particular group only, and for others preaching is neither necessary nor suitable. Even that special group, instead of propagating the complete truth facing all the tribulations this effort brings with it, have left the path of determination and sacrifice, and made their path easier by attenuating Allah's سبحانہ وتعالیٰ requirements. In this manner the whole Muslim Nation has become dominated by inactivity, stagnation, escapism, and sloth. This situation cannot change until Muslims realize that the performance of righteous deeds is essential for salvation. Even more is required. The affirmation and declaration of truth and inviting others to accept it, as well as remaining steadfast in the face of hardships and calamities for truth's sake is also necessary. This is the truth which has been stated in this shortest but most comprehensive surah.

It is necessary to understand the rational relation between these four components. To be called a man of character implies, judging what is wrong or right in every matter, then adopting in practice whatever his heart and mind has sanctioned as right. A man must not only adopt it himself, but must declare it openly, inviting others to acknowledge and accept it. If in this connection, he faces difficulties and hardships, or has to offer sacrifices, then he must show courage and fortitude, patience and perseverance, and should never retreat or withdraw from his stand.

42

For a man of noble character, it is not possible to adopt any other course. Otherwise he will be a coward and man of weak character, not a man of principle. This is the rational and logical sequence in these four components: (1) faith (2) righteous deeds (3) exhortation to truth (4) exhortation to patience and endurance. And it is not possible for a man of strong character to try to avoid any one of these.

Eloquence with categorical Emphasis

The fourth conclusion obtained by analyzing and paraphrasing this surah is that the above three conclusions are categorical and most emphatic in their nature and that there is no doubt concerning any of them. Our whole faith rests upon accepting the Glorious Qur'an as the word of Allah سبحانہ وتعالیٰ and accepting this word as infallible. And who can be more truthful in His statements than Allah سبحانہ وتعالیٰ? Moreover, Allah سبحانہ وتعالیٰ has not merely stated these truths, but has taken an oath for confirming their validity. This oath makes this statement more emphatic, and whatever realities are hidden in it, and whatever moral lessons are conveyed by it, are all of them delivered with complete certainty, free from all doubts and compromise. This means that mankind is unknowingly moving towards utter loss and is on the verge of destruction, with the exception of those who have fulfilled these four conditions of "faith", "righteous deeds", "exhortation to truth" and "exhortation to patience", and have passed all tests and ordeals which come in the way of fulfilling these conditions.

These are the four basic conclusions which can be drawn by contemplating on this glorious surah. In fact this is the gist of Surah Al-'Asr, according to the practice of Tazakkur-bil-Qur'an in order to obtain its basic meaning.

Now I want you to study and understand every word of this surah rather in depth, in order to make clear that in spite of its simple wording, great realities are concealed in it, and gems of wisdom and prudence are hidden in it.

The Real Meaning of "Wal-'Asr"

Let us take the word "Wal-'Asr" which we have simply translated as "taking an oath by time".

The real meaning of Asr is not only time, but a period which passes swiftly. In Arabic language the two words Asr (عصر) and Dahr (دهر) are very comprehensive. In both of them, not only time, but time-space complex is implied. Curiously enough in the Glorious Qur'an, there are surahs with the title of both Asr and Dahr. The word Dahr connotes the vastness of the space-time continuum, or in the terminology of modern philosophy, absolute time or pure duration. The word Asr connotes the sweep of time or its swift flow. In other words, Asr means serial time.

In the word "Wal-'Asr" the letter 'و' (Wa'w) is a preposition, and is used as an oath and testimonial. In short, the real meaning of the word "Wal-'Asr" is that the swift passage of time through the ages bears witness and provides evidence for the statements that follow.

The Vast Meaning of "Khusran" or Loss

We have translated the second verse as, "Indeed, mankind is in loss." But even this translation does not convey the real meaning, because the Qur'anic term Khusran is not a monetary loss of a few thousands or millions, but indicates complete destruction.

In the Holy Qur'an many words have been used for achievement and success such as accomplishment, triumph, fulfillment, and blessing. But as an antonym of all these, only one comprehensive word is used, and that is Khusran. It means that the second verse really shows that the whole mankind is standing on the verge of destruction or doom.

The significant reality which has been described in this verse, and the human tragedy towards which this verse points out, can be conceived or realized full in its true perspective in two stages.

Firstly, everyone in this worldly life faces a hard struggle for existence. Many people have to undertake rigorous labour from morning till evening, but are unable to provide the bare necessities of life for their dependents. The majority of human beings cannot afford even the basic necessities of life, such as food, clothing, shelter, education, and medical care. Even prosperous people have to work hard to maintain their status. From this point of view, a human being is like a beast of burden. But it is even more tragic because he is a creature of feelings and emotions. In addition to all that labour, he has to bear numerous mental hardships. Sometimes, he is deeply moved by the love of his children, sometimes by the trouble faced by his kith and kin. Sometimes he has to put up with the sorrow of a relative's illness, or the shock of the death of someone loved by him. Not only hard work and labour is his lot but grief and sorrow as well.

You must have known that by observing these very troubles and tribulations of life, Buddha was so much disheartened and dismayed that in the prime of his life he left his young wife and innocent son and ran out to the jungles in search of "truth".

The masses generally harbour the misunderstanding that wealthy and prosperous people have no anxieties. As a matter of fact, the kind of psychic agony which they face is rarely experienced by a common man. They face numerous conflicts and frustrations, and very often the people of this class fall prey to mental diseases and psychic disorders. This is the first stage of human tragedy and this has been mentioned very eloquently in the last part of the Glorious Qur'an, in surah No. 90 entitled Al-Balad in verse No. 4 wherein Allahسبحانہ وتعالٰی says:

لَقَدۡ خَلَقۡنَا الۡاِنۡسَانَ فِیۡ کَبَدٍ ؕ﴿۴﴾ (البلد، ۹۰: ۴)

"We have certainly created man into hardship." (Al-Balad, 90:4)

But added to this tragedy of the terrestrial existence is the doom of the worst type that is manifest in the life hereafter. The climax of human tragedy is that after tolerating all troubles and hardships of this world, suddenly he will have to present himself before his Creator and give account for all the activities of his life. This is the picture, which has been presented in surah No. 84, entitled Al-Inshiqaq verse No. 6 wherein Allahسبحانہ وتعالٰی says:

یٰۤاَیُّهَا الۡاِنۡسَانُ اِنَّکَ کَادِحٌ اِلٰی رَبِّکَ کَدۡحًا فَمُلٰقِیۡهِ ۚ﴿۶﴾ (الانشقاق، ۸۴:۶)

“O mankind! Indeed you are laboring toward your Lord with [great] exertion and will meet it.” (Al-Inshiqaq, 84:6)

And, if in that trial, his thoughts, convictions, actions and activities are found deviating from the straight path, he would undergo a heart-rending and most severe punishment and torture in the hell for ever. And this is the real loss as Allahسبحانہ وتعالٰی says in the Holy Qur’an:

ذٰلِکَ ہُوَ الۡخُسۡرَانُ الۡمُبِیۡنُ ﴿۱۱﴾ (الحج، ۲۲: ۱۱)

“That is what the manifest loss is.” (Al-Hajj, 22:11)

The Inter-relation of the First Two Verses

It is clear that the first verse is an oath and the second is the statement for which the oath has been taken. That is, in the second verse a truth has been stated, and in the first evidence has been presented for it. The question is: what is the logical sequence between the two?

By contemplating over it, we realize that “time”, constantly passing, is like a sheet, which is spread up to eternity. It means that time is an entity, which is an eye witness to the entire passage of man’s life, from his birth to death and to the life of the Hereafter. Hence, the toiling, painful life of man is present before it, and it stands witness also to the momentous events of the rise and fall of nations. The life of the Hereafter, the climax of human tragedy, is also before its gaze. Thus time is the greatest witness to the fact that “Indeed, mankind is in loss.”

This ascertained truth has an added element of warning implied by “Wal-‘Asr”. This warning is, that the real cause of mankind’s ruination, destruction, and utter loss is his negligence, and that by entangling himself in his immediate problems and the trivial affairs of his life, he faces a state of perplexity and self-negation.

The word “Wal-‘Asr” is a clarion call to wake him up from his indifference and slumber. It points out: O careless man! Your real asset is time, which is passing swiftly, and your real capital is this probationary period of worldly life which is ending quickly, and if you are unable to build up your personality, or according to the words of Iqbal, the poet of the East, if you have not achieved any sublimity in your SELF or EGO, then you will have to face eternal loss, and your life will be doomed.

The Real Meaning of Iman or Faith

The first condition of salvation, or deliverance from this sheer destruction, is Iman (faith). This word Iman has been derived from aman meaning peace. Its literal meaning is to provide peace and tranquility. But in its technical sense the word Iman is used with the prepositions ''ل'' or ''ب'' such as ''آمَنَ لَہٗ'' or ''آمَنَ بِہٖ''. In this form its literal meaning is to have trust or belief in and to testify. In order to understand the real meaning of Iman (faith) it is necessary to realize that any man who has attained maturity of intelligence obviously starts thinking on perennial questions like "Who am I?", "From where did I come?", "What is the nature of the Universe?" and "What is the last destination of the journey of my life?" Those who have studied philosophy know that throughout the history of human thought many thinkers continued to ponder over these questions, and tried to find satisfactory answers. Without an answer to these questions, a human being is in the dark, knowing little about his real self, or about the universe, or his own beginning, or the beginning or the end of the Universe.

It is evident that these questions cannot be answered merely by our physical senses. As yet we have not been able to fathom the vastness even of the physical world. How can we have any knowledge of its beginning or end? Similarly, the question whether or not we had any existence before our creation in this world, and whether after death there will be any continuity of our existence or not, cannot be answered by our senses, because we cannot possible peep into the world of existence either prior to our birth or beyond physical death. In short, man is utterly helpless to attain true and ultimate knowledge.

Despite these natural limitations, there have been in the history of mankind a number of persons who claimed that they had a special source of knowledge which they called "revelation". On the authority of revelation, they knew for certain that this universe did not exist from eternity nor would it remain in existence forever. It has been brought into existence by a Creator Who possesses all the attributes of perfection in their utmost degree of excellence, and He is Unique in His essence and attributes. He had always existed and will continue to exist forever. It is He Who has created you, and your life is not the life of this world only, but He would again bring you back to life after death, and that life will be real and eternal. In that life of the Hereafter, you will face your rewards or punishments for your convictions, actions and pursuits during this life. This Creator and Master has assigned messengers from among men and given them the task of proclaiming these verities and the right way of living in this world so that men may be saved from sheer loss in the life Hereafter and may achieve success and eternal bliss.

These Messengers are known as Prophetsf of Allahسبحانہ وتعالٰی and the affirmation of our belief in them is called Iman or belief in prophethood. This faith has two aspects: verbal confession and certainty in our hearts. We testify verbally that we believe in all prophetsf, and, according to their teachings, we believe in Allahسبحانہ وتعالٰی with all His revealed attributes, and we believe in life after death, and in the day of judgement, in reward and punishment, and in hell and heaven. We also accept these verities with utmost certitude in our hearts. These two conditions constitute our faith or Iman. Faith is certitude about the Creator, man and the universe. It leads to two results:

The first is that a man's internal anxiety must disappear and he must achieve inner peace and satisfaction, when, as a result of this faith, the natural inquisitiveness regarding his own identity and the nature of universe is gratified. This internal serenity is the gift of faith. That is why, etymologically, the Arabic word for faith is a derivative of the root word aman which means peace.

The second is a reform of one's actions and life-style. As the Socratic doctrine says "Knowledge is virtue, and ignorance is vice". A believer should be adorned with high moral and virtuous deeds, and should be free from inferior and degrading actions.

This second point is very important because it shows that faith and action are linked, that faith (Iman) and righteous deeds (Amal-i-Saleh) are interrelated. Compare for a moment two men. One thinks that this universe has come into existence accidentally and that its entire system and organization is running automatically.

The second acknowledges that there is an Almighty, All-knowing, All-wise, All-powerful, Supreme Being, Who has ordained and created this cosmos and that He is the Ordainer Who has ordained this Universe and everything in it, and it is running according to His decrees. Is it possible that the life attitude and actions of these two persons would be similar? Would not there be a tremendous difference between their attitudes and behavior? Similarly, one man thinks that this life which he is leading in this world, is the only life and there is no life after death, there is no accountability, no responsibility, no reward or punishment. Another man is sure that the real and everlasting life will begin after death, that the life of this material world is nothing but a preamble of that real life which will start in the Hereafter, and that after death every person will be answerable not only for every action, but for every word and thought. The attitudes and actions of these two would necessarily be different.

It is quite easy to conclude that the goal of life of the former would be to enjoy every minute of this life, as there is no life after it. And in this gratification of the instinct of enjoyment, he might not distinguish between right and wrong, lawful and unlawful. But the second man would take every step in his life with caution and he would be conscious of his responsibility at all times. A man's faith necessitates tremendous transformation in his life.

Please do understand clearly that the idea commonly held in our society that faith and action are separate is only true about the legal aspect of faith. In this society, a man is considered and pronounced a Muslim on the basis of verbal confession only. We cannot possibly include his action and conduct in this. But that genuine faith which includes certainty of one's heart and soul must bring a transformation in one's actions. If one's daily life is not changed, this is an absolute proof that genuine faith does not exist in his heart. His faith is no more than a profession.

This truth has been clarified by the Holy Prophet Muhammadﷺ in many of his traditions and sayings. He said:

((لَا اِيْمَانَ لِمَنْ لَا اَمَانَةَ لَهُ وَ لَا دِيْنَ لِمَنْ لَّا عَهْدَ لَهُ)) [صحيح الجامع: ٧١٧٩]

"A man who betrays his trust has no faith and the person who does not fulfil his promise has no religion."

Now think over it and see how beautiful is our Prophet'sﷺ way of expression, and how the thought expressed is as clear as a basic mathematical proposition.

Similarly, once the Prophet of Islamﷺ swore three times, saying:

وَاللهِ لَا يُؤْمِنُ، وَاللهِ لَا يُؤْمِنُ، وَاللهِ لَا يُؤْمِنُ)) قِيْلَ: مَنْ يَا رَسُوْلَ اللهِ؟ قَالَ: ((اَلَّذِىْ لَا يَأْمَنُ جَارُهُ بَوَائِقَهُ)) [متفق عليه: عن ابى هريره رضى الله عنه].

"By God he is not a believer, by God he is not a believer, by God he is not a believer". The Companions of the Prophetﷺ enquired: "Who is that person about whom you are saying this?" He said in reply: "It is the person from whose misconduct his neighbor is not safe."

Just see how emphatically the Holy Prophetﷺ has referred to the complete negation of faith and that too not on account of committing a major sin, such as, polytheism, unjustified murder, adultery, theft or robbery, but only on account of something normally regarded as merely poor behavior. Is there any justification after this for thinking that faith and action are separate things and are not co-essential and interrelated? This is why in order to remove this misunderstanding completely, the Holy Qur'an consistently mentions righteous deeds as the accompaniment of faith.

So long as faith is confined to the stage of verbal confession and it is limited up to an utterance of words only, actions can be exactly the opposite of it, because the contradiction of word and actions is very commonly found in this world. But when faith reaches a state of certainty in our heart, when it penetrates our heart and soul and becomes an unshakable conviction, then our actions will necessarily be changed because the actions of a man are based on his belief and conviction. For example, we know that fire can burn us, so we would never put even a finger in it. Even suspicion can influence our actions. We know that all snakes are not poisonous, but still even if we suspect that a particular snake might be poisonous, we keep away from it. Now if a person believes with utmost surety that Allahسبحانہ وتعالیٰ exists and that He is All-Seeing, All–Hearing, All-Knowing; that every movement of his, every word which he utters and, more than this, even every intention of his heart is known to Him; that after death, he shall have no alternative but to present himself before Him, and shall have to give full account of his entire life, with no chance of escaping from the grip of His punishment, nor any hope of deliverance through ransom or intercession; then that man, believing all these things firmly, would not dare to lead a sinful life. This is the condition which has been described in the following saying of Prophet Muhammadﷺ:

((لَا يَزْنِی الزَّانِی حِيْنَ يَزْنِیْ وَهُوَ مُؤمِنٌ، وَلَا يَسْرِقُ السَّارِقُ حِيْنَ يَسْرِقُ وَهُوَ مُؤمِنٌ، وَلَا يَشْرَبُ الْخَمْرَ حِيْنَ يَشْرَبُهَا وَهُوَ مُؤمِنٌ))۔
[متفق علیہ: عن ابی ہریرہ رضی اللہ عنہ]

“No adulterer commits adultery while he has faith. No thief commits a theft while he has faith. And no drunkard drinks intoxicants while he has faith.”

In fact these sins are committed only at a time when due to one reason or another, the real faith of a man has dissipated or vanished from his heart. Faith and righteous deed are interdependent and each of them is essential for the other. Righteous deeds, good morals and a lofty character are sine qua non of true faith. This is why in Surah Al-‘Asr, after faith, righteous deeds have been mentioned as a necessary condition of salvation.

The Real Meaning of Righteous Deeds

The phrase “righteous deeds” is commonly translated as good actions. But, if we look deep into it, we would discover more significance hidden behind it.

The two locutions action and activity are generally taken to convey the same sense. But there is a subtle difference in their meaning. Any kind of movement or work can be called activity, but the word action usually implies some strenuous or arduous work. On the other side, the word virtuous or righteous denotes something which had developmental characteristics and potential for enhancement. By combining these two, we would realize that the actual significance of this term is that it is necessary for man to put up a hard struggle to achieve that real goal for which he was potentially created, and he had to ascend certain heights to attain that goal. All this is conveyed by the comprehensive word “righteous deed”.

Surah At-Teen in many respects resembles Surah Al-'Asr. Verses 4, 5 and 6 of the surah state:

لَقَدۡ خَلَقۡنَا الۡاِنۡسَانَ فِیۡۤ اَحۡسَنِ تَقۡوِیۡمٍ ﴿۴﴾ثُمَّ رَدَدۡنٰہُ اَسۡفَلَ سٰفِلِیۡنَ ۙ﴿۵﴾اِلَّا الَّذِیۡنَ اٰمَنُوۡا وَ عَمِلُوا الصّٰلِحٰتِ فَلَہُمۡ اَجۡرٌ غَیۡرُ مَمۡنُوۡنٍ ؕ﴿۶﴾ (التین، ۹۵:۴-۶)

"We have certainly created man in the best of stature; Then We return him to the lowest of the low, Except for those who believe and do righteous deeds, for they will have a reward uninterrupted."(At-Teen, 95:4-6)

This means that, in reality, man was created for the most sublime rank, and Allah سبحانہ وتعالیٰ conferred on him superiority not only over Jinn (Genie) but also over angels. He was even endowed with the vicegerency of God. But in his terrestrial existence the spiritual self is imprisoned in his gross body of clay, wherein he falls a prey to the clutches of his carnal nature and is reduced to the lowest of low.

Now to regain his lost status and sublime rank, it is necessary for him to obtain real knowledge. He must illumine his inner self with the light of faith and must perform good deeds, adorning his outer self with righteous actions, observing the canonical law of Islam and following the Prophet's ﷺ way of life. These are the prime prerequisites of his salvation.

The Meaning of Mutual Exhortation

In the last part of Surah Al-'Asr, the word tawasau has been used twice. Its verbal noun is tawasi, and it is derived from wasiyyat, which means admonition, exhortation with persistent emphasis. Again, this infinitive is formed from the stem of the verbal noun tafaul, whose first attribute is mutual cooperation and the second is emphasis to the point of exaggeration. It means that this action of exhortation is required with the greatest fervour and intensity. This stage necessitates the establishment of a collective community or Ummah based on the principles of mutual preaching of truth and patience.

The Meaning of "Haqq" or Truth

Similarly, the connotation of the word Haqq is very extensive. Its meaning includes everything which is actually real (that is, it is not imaginary or based on presumption). It also connotes what is acknowledged by reason or is necessary ethically, or is purposive and not useless or vacuous. Hence exhortation to truth means confirming, acknowledging, inviting to and preaching everything which is factually true and real, is ethically necessary and is proved by reason.

Thus the spectrum of truth encompasses on the one hand the testimony of the evident facts of our existence and, on the other hand, the testimony of the ultimate metaphysical truths of existence. Exhortation to truth includes a whole range of activities, from giving personal moral advice to the clarion call of the greatest truth, the truth that the real Lord and Master of this universe is Allahسبحانہ وتعالٰی, and that it is He who deserves that His Commands should be promulgated and that His laws should be enforced in this world. And this truth should not merely be pronounced verbally, but a vigorous struggle should be launched for its practical implementation and actualization.

Similarly, the comprehensive term "exhortation to truth" embraces within itself concepts which underlie many technical terms of the Holy Qur'an, such as preaching virtues and holding back people from vices. It implies asking and inviting people to do good deeds and stop them from falling in the snare of every kind of evil, exhorting them to be merciful, to have compassion for each other and to be kind to each other; and calling people towards Allahسبحانہ وتعالٰی, persuading them to seek real knowledge and devotion before their Real Sovereign and Master, Allahسبحانہ وتعالٰی. Also it includes efforts in the path of Allahسبحانہ وتعالٰی, that is, struggling hard for the establishment of the supremacy of the true religion of Allahسبحانہ وتعالٰی and spending one's wealth for this purpose and sacrificing one's life for this noble cause.

The Meaning of Patience

The meaning of patience is very comprehensive. Its real essence is that a person should continue to maintain himself upon the chosen path, without allowing any trouble, or temptation to deviate him from it. No amount of persecution or trial should cause him to desist. He must remain steadfast in every situation, and should display firmness, perseverance, bravery and fortitude. He must not only persevere in following the truth but must also continue to persuade others to accept it and comply with it.

Exhortation to Truth and Exhortation to Patience are co-essential

As faith and righteous deeds are inter-related; so are exhortation to truth and exhortation to patience. This is because the invitation to truth is usually not welcomed and it has often to face resistance. It is necessary for those who are dedicated to truth to put up with oppression and persecution.

Perhaps all of us have experienced that even a little piece of moral advice can be disliked by people. For example, if a person owes five dollars to someone, and is putting off its payment and you ask him to pay that amount to his creditor, he will frown at you. If he is in an angry mood, he may warn you not to interfere in his affairs. Now you can well imagine how much resistance would be offered and to what extent people will oppose the preaching which demands from them the fulfilling of their major obligations and religious duties.

58

And this is the point where a person faces the real test of his character and conviction. It is a fact that mere apprehension and recognition of truth is not so difficult, as is adopting it for oneself and inviting others to act upon it and to remaining firm in this struggle. In Qur'anic terminology, this is called istiqamat i.e., steadfastness. This is the acid test which proves to what extent a person is committed to his objectives and whether he possesses anything which can be termed stability of character and commitment.

This is why the Holy Qur'an lays so much emphasis on the fact that true believers necessarily have to face tests and ordeals, and the truthfulness of their claims to have faith is to be examined and tested in many ways. Only those are regarded as sincere in their faith who remain firm in the face of ordeals and provide concrete proof of patience and perseverance.

The Interrelation of Faith, Righteous Deeds and Mutual Exhortation

We have seen that faith and righteous deeds are interdependent and also exhortation to truth and exhortation to patience. Now, if we understand the relationship between these two pairs, we will have a complete view of this surah.

Nothing and no one can avoid influencing his environment and being influenced by it. The coldness of ice will necessarily chill its surroundings and the heat of fire will surely make them warmer. The same is true in the field of morality. If the spirit of righteous deeds is really engendered in a person, it must have an impact upon his environment and he will necessarily be a source of diffusing goodness and virtue.

59

The natural outcome of righteous deeds is the propagation of truth in society.

This principle operates in ethics very forcefully. If the social environment favours evil, it will necessarily bring about deterioration in the lives of its citizens. The only possible way to escape from this is to change that environment or at least to struggle vehemently to change it. Even if a person cannot change it, he can at least in this way, act on the principle that the best defense is a good offence, and repel it defensively. Thus the Holy Prophetﷺ said:

((مَنْ رَآى مِنْكُمْ مُنْكَرًا فَلْيُغَيِّرْهُ بِيَدِهِ، فَاِنْ لَّمْ يَسْتَطِعْ فَبِلِسَانِهِ، فَاِنْ لَّمْ يَسْتَطِعْ فَبِقَلْبِهِ، وَذٰلِکَ اَضْعَفُ الْاِيْمَانِ))[مسلم: عن ابی سعید الخدری رضی الله عنہ]

“If any one among you observes a vice, it is his duty to change it by force. If he is not able to do so, he should protest against it verbally. If he does not possess even this much of courage, he should detest it by his heart and soul, which means that his heart should regard it as bad, and that he should regret that he could not stop it, and this is the weakest degree of faith”.

The nobility of a man’s character demands exhortation to truth because the goodness in any person who has discovered truth and adopted for himself necessarily demands that he should present it to others, that the greatest number of people may benefit from it, and should partake of its blessing. Thus the Holy Prophetﷺ said:

- ((لَا يُؤْمِنُ اَحَدُكُمْ حَتّٰى يُحِبَّ لِاَخِيْهِ مَا يُحِبُّ لِنَفْسِهٖ))[مسلم: عن انس رضى الله عنه]

“No one among you can be regarded as believer until he loves for his brother what he loves for himself.”

The self-respect and ardent zeal of a man who has accepted truth demand that he should preach it to others. He should uphold it, propagate it, and should sacrifice his life and wealth in the struggle to make it supremely established in society.

If a man adopts a particular way of life and his environment adopts another, then there are only two possibilities. He must either adapt himself to his environment, in that way, removing the discrepancies and resolving clash and discords or, if he finds the environment totally against his wishes, he should put up a tough resistance, should wage war against it, and should try to change it, according to his point of view. Now it is obvious that for a man of dignity, honour, and zeal, a man of earnest concern, the only course open to him is the second one. He would be glad to sacrifice his life for the sake of truth, but would never tolerate that by leading a life of ease and comfort, he should treacherously distort and misrepresent the truth.

Faith, righteous deeds, exhortation to truth and exhortation to patience are indispensable requirements for salvation, and also dependent upon each other. All four are indivisible aspects of a unit, and are inseparable factors of one single totality. In fact, what are all these four except an exposition or commentary of the word faith? If faith has in reality penetrated a person’s heart, it will necessarily result in the performance of righteous deeds, and if the habit of doing righteous deeds has become one’s second nature, its natural outcome would be exhortation to truth; and if the preaching of truth is done with real sincerity and dedication, it will necessarily lead to the stage of exhortation to patience and endurance. The reverse order also holds good. If the stage of preaching patience and endurance is not encountered, then this is a certain proof that the preaching is not of the whole truth, but only of a harmless part of it. If the stage of taking up missionary work is missing, then this implies that a man's actions are not righteous and that he lacks religious zeal. And if his actions are not being performed on the right lines, then this is a categorical proof that genuine faith has not entered his heart.

The path of salvation which is pointed out by Surah Al-'Asr, the path of success and triumph towards which it guides and directs us has four milestones: faith, righteous deeds, exhortation to truth and exhortation to patience.

The most perfect example of the pattern delineated above is the life-story of the Holy Prophet Muhammadﷺ wherein all these four components are present in their utmost perfection. At first, the Holy Prophet Muhammadﷺ tried to discover the reality of his own identity and that of the cosmos. A Qur'anic verse asks:

وَ وَجَدَکَ ضَآلًّا فَہَدٰی ﴿۷﴾ (الضحٰی، ۹۳: ۷)

"And He found you lost and guided [you]." (Al-Duhaa, 93:7)

The angel Gabriel revealed to him the truths he required. The Holy Prophetﷺ confirmed them and affirmed his faith in them, as stated in the Glorious Qur'an:

اٰمَنَ الرَّسُوْلُ بِمَآ اُنْزِلَ اِلَیْہِ مِنْ رَّبِّہٖ وَ الْمُؤْمِنُوْنَ ؕ (البقرۃ، ۲:۲۸۵)

"The Messenger has believed in what was revealed to him from his Lord, and [so have] the believers." (Al-Baqarah, 2:285)

The life of Prophet Muhammadﷺ was the perfect model of moral excellence and unparalleled example of sublime character. The Holy Qur'an states:

لَقَدْ کَانَ لَکُمْ فِیْ رَسُوْلِ اللّٰہِ اُسْوَۃٌ حَسَنَۃٌ (الاحزاب، ۳۳: ۲۱)

"There has certainly been for you in the Messenger of Allah an excellent pattern." (Al-Ahzab 33:21)

After fulfilling these fundamental requirements of faith and righteous deeds to perfection, the Holy Prophet Muhammadﷺ spent twenty-three years in the untiring struggle of preaching the truth; declaring and promulgating the grandeur and glory of Allahسبحانہ وتعالیٰ. He bravely tolerated all troubles for this purpose, courageously suffered all afflictions and faced all the persecutions and oppressions of his opponents. In the canyon of Bani Hashim, he endured severe hardships during three long years of imprisonment. In the streets of Taif, he was stoned and ridiculed by rascals and urchins. The lives of his dear relatives and his beloved companions were sacrificed for the pleasure of his Lord and in order to uphold divine truth. After indefatigable efforts, struggling night and day for twenty-three years, finally he made the truth reign supreme. And only after making the divine religion Islam the dominant force in the Arabian Peninsula, did he return to his Divine Lord, Allahسبحانہ وتعالیٰ. May the peace and blessings of Allahسبحانہ وتعالیٰ be showered on him and on his companions! In short, the biography of the Holy Prophet Muhammadﷺ embodies the contents of Surah Al-'Asr in action.

So, this is a concise explanation of the significance of Surah Al-'Asr. Now you must have realized why I regarded it as the most comprehensive surah of the Holy Qur'an, and why Imam Al-Shaf'eiim had said, that if people were to contemplate it seriously, this brief surah would be sufficient for their direction and guidance.

Its relation to the surahs before and after

Finally, let us cast a glance on the surah of the Holy Qur'an which precede and follow Surah Al-'Asr. I had stated that the righteousness of a man's character is based upon the establishment of the real criterion of success and failure in his heart and soul and his willingness to act according to it always. If this criterion is not established, then the aim of his life may be reduced to amassing wealth, material comforts and luxuries. The desire for greater material well-being may overwhelm and over-power his mind to such an extent that it makes him oblivious of the greater realities of his life and the universe. The curtain of this negligence and indifference is only lifted at the time of death. This state of affairs has been described in Surah Al-Takathur, the blessed surah of the Glorious Qur'an which precedes Surah Al-'Asr.

As a result of this negligence a man becomes unable to differentiate between right and wrong, lawful and unlawful, approved and forbidden. He sees success as a matter of hoarding and piling up wealth, and he becomes bereft of all good qualities of character and morals, and his personality becomes replete with sins and vices. This picture has been revealed in Surah Al-Humaza which comes after Surah Al-'Asr. I seek refuge in Allahسبحانہ وتعالیٰ, and pray to Him to protect us from such a grievous, dreadful and disastrous end to our lives. Ameen!

***

List of English Books

By Dr. Israr Ahmad

- The Obligations Muslims owe to the Qur'an
- The Way to Salvation: in the Light of Sura Al-Asr
- Rise and Decline of the Muslim Ummah
- The Qur'an and World Peace
- Islamic Renaissance: The Real Task Ahead
- Calling People Unto Allah
- Tragedy of Karbala
- Muhammad ﷺ

The Objective of His Appointment

- Lessons from History
- The Prophet's Strategy for Islamic Revolution
- Love for the Messenger ﷺ and its Requisites
- Three-point Action Agenda for the Muslin Ummah
- Religious Obligations of Muslim Women

- Bai'yah - The Basis for Organization of a Revivalist Party in Islam
- Khilafah in Pakistan: What, Why and How?
- The Obligations to God
- Synthesis of Iman
- Jihad in the Way of Allah
- The Call of Tanzeem-e-Islami
- The Genesis of Tanzeem-e-Islami
- The Reality of Tasawwuf:

In the Light of the Prophetic Model

- The Process of Creation: A Qur'anic Perspective